TURNERS OWN THE TOWN.

ALL IS COLOR AND "GESUNDEHEITS" ARE PLENTY.

THEIR MAGNIFICENT PARADE.

Thousands More Arrive Than Were Expected, and the Reception Committees Are Busy.

The splendid weather which marks the opening day of the great German turnfest fills every Turner's soul with delight. That element of the St. Louis population will continue for the next few days but drink in the soft and balmy atmosphere, with some other things that are peculiar to the excellent German.

The fellow-citizen of the Vaterland is out for a good time this week, and all nature seems to favor his having it.

It is estimated that 20,000 Turners arrived Thursday morning and fully 10,000 came in the afternoon. With these, with the many strangers attracted to St. Louis by the festivities, swell the city's visitors to about 40,000.

A large number of visiting Turners arrived from various parts of the country Wednesday night, and for a time there was a crush of humanity at Union Station, which the local committees, aided by the police, ditional Citizens' Committee to assist in interesting generally the host of Turners during their week's sojourn. This committee is composed as follows: Frank Salminie, Dr. Charles Reber, Senator Jules Rassieur, W. G. Boyd, Amadee B. Cole, Edward Devoy, Capt. R. McCullough, Hon. C. C. an answer from the Greek commander, saying:

"Our success has been very brilliant, thanks to the courage of the men. But it is by God's help that we have repelled the enemy."

The Crown Prince has issued an army order congratulating the troops upon showing themselves worthy of the trust reposed in them by the country.

It is said that Col. Terigli, in command of the Greek forces at Karditsa, has been called.

The fighting which is to take place today in this vicinity will most likely turn out to be the most interesting and decisive of the whole campaign.

In spite of the difficulties which both sides have experienced with their transports since the two armies have had plenty of time to prepare for the final engagement.

Though it is difficult to predict the result, there is no denying that the odds are in favor of the Turks. They are overwhelmingly strong in infantry, artillery and cavalry.

The Ottoman troops, moreover, are full of confidence and eager to engage in battle. They have implicit faith in their officers and will carry out every order to the letter. These officers, thoroughly capable men themselves, have the benefit of the advice of picked German and Russian officers and are lacking in nothing calculated to assure a glorious campaign to a brilliant and successful termination. The Turks occupy well-chosen and, though repulsed, they are in no way disheartened.

As the campaign stands, the loss of a few thousand men to the Turks is but a trifling affair. They have all the men needed and plenty to spare.

The Greeks occupy strong, well entrenched positions on high ground, but are no cavalry worth mentioning and are very weak in artillery, but with guns they are well supplied. The Greek infantry may be expected to fare well while occupying good defensive positions. In the fields or open plain it is not to be expected they will be a match for the Turks. Supplies of all kinds in the Greek camp are at a premium.

Ethem Pasha, the Turkish commander, may safely be reckoned upon to be carrying out a well-conceived plan of campaign. His main forces are divided into four divisions, arrayed in a semi-circle around Pharsala, which is backed by high hills. The extreme right of the Turkish commander is southwest and south of the railway line at Bazaraki, while three brigades are threatening Velioglio and Volo.

From present indications it appears that Ethem Pasha's plan is to turn both the Greek flanks and thus practically surround them.

PRANKS OF THE MISSOURI.

Railroad Tracks in Danger Near the Big Blue's Mouth.

The following changes in the river (in feet and tenths) have occurred:

Fallen—I. Crosse, 6.6; Dubuque, 6.3; Davenport, 6.3; Keokuk, 7.1; St. Louis, 6.9; Memphis, 6.3; Vickburg, 6.1.

Above the danger line and falling at Vicksburg, 10.5.

Stationary—New Orleans, 3.3.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 6.—Though the Missouri River is gradually falling here, several railroads whose tracks run close to the Missouri are in danger. The Big Blue River, about two miles below, is much concerned over a threatened loss of roadbed. At that point the Missouri is rapidly cutting the banks, and the tracks are in danger of being washed away. A mine, even after 200 tons of limestone had been thrown in to protect the bank. The "Air Line," the Missouri Pacific and the Santa Fe, are also in danger. The Union Pacific forces in an attempt to stem the current.

THIRTY NEGROES SAVED.

Though Nearly Starved, They Were Brought on Reaching Land.

NATCHITOCHES, Miss., May 6.—Thirty negroes drifting on a raft were landed near here, having been floating for four days with nothing to eat. No sooner had they reached land than they fell down and worshipped. A negro Baptist teacher, being near by, offered bread and water to the crowd, and the whole crowd refused to eat or leave the river bank until the baptism was completed. They said the flood was a visitation of divine wrath.

CAR FACTORY ENDANGERED.

It Was a Big Blaze, but the Damage Was Small.

Fire threatened to destroy the Missouri Car and Foundry Co.'s plant near De Kalb street and the Levee Thursday morning.

A spark from the furnace ignited an immense pile of shavings in the engine room. There was a big blaze, but the fire was extinguished before it had a chance to spread to the factory proper. The damage was a minimum.

REAPPORTIONMENT CONSTITUTIONAL.

LAW SUSTAINED BY ILLINOIS SUPREME COURT.

THE DECISION BY MAGRUDER.

Democrats Made a Contest on the Ground That There Was No Emergency Clause.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MT. VERNON, Ill., May 6.—The Supreme Court of Illinois, through Chief Justice Magruder, to-day sustained the judicial apportionment bill passed by the Legislature April last. A case was brought to the Supreme Court by agreement to test the validity of the apportionment law. The Democratic nominees, Messrs. Geo. W. Hartman, Owen P. Thompson, and T. T. Beach, presented nomination papers duly attested from a convention in the old Seventh Judicial Circuit. Secretary of State Rose refused to receive or file them. The nominees came into court and petitioned for a writ of mandamus to compel the Secretary of State to file the papers and certify the nominations to the county clerks of the respective counties in the Seventh Judicial Circuit. The contention of the petitioners was that the Legislature which convened in January, 1897, could not pass a constitutional reapportionment of the State into judicial districts unless it did so under an emergency clause and hence the so-called reapportionment bill passed April 23, 1897, without the emergency clause was unconstitutional, but it is unconstitutional. The reapportionment to be legal without the emergency clause should have been passed by the Legislature of 1897.

This ruling sustains Secretary Rose in the position he assumed in regard to the above mentioned bills. The court, however, did not file a written opinion, so the grounds it based its rulings on could not be learned.

VALLINS' CASE.

Atty.-Gen. Crow Hears Statements and Will Decide on His Course Next Week.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 6.—Atty.-Gen. Crow came to Kansas City from Webb City late Wednesday afternoon to inquire into the proposed suit of ouster against Pinkerton Chief of Police Thomas N. Vallins. Attorney Daniel W. Brown, who has been retained by the Industrial Council to fight the case, and the committee named by the unions met the Attorney-General, who was conducted to a secret conference in the Temple Block. Those present aside from those already named were: Ex-Senator Arthur Lyman, H. N. Miller, Secretary of the Painters' Union; E. J. Stine, representing the Cigarmakers' Union; Secretary McCambridge of the Plumbers' Union, and President E. H. Bettis of the Industrial Council.

The attorney and the council outlined the case and stated that he had no doubt of a doubt they could establish that Vallins was not eligible to the office under the State statutes. They had gathered evidence showing that Vallins had voted in Chicago last fall and that he had been in the employ of the Pinkerton office in Chicago until the time of his election, though his family had resided there until that time.

Atty.-Gen. Crow listened attentively and asked many questions, but could not positively say he would take the case into the courts. Said he: "Gather all the facts in the case, gentlemen, and submit them to me, and I will see what more can be done. Find, on examination, that you have grounds for action I will begin proceedings."

The Post-Dispatch representative Mr. Crow said after the conference: "In the event of my filing proceedings I have not yet decided whether to take it into the Supreme Court or into the federal courts." Kansas City. Either has final jurisdiction. The case is to be ready for me about Monday or Tuesday. It will be in Kansas City at the end of May, and another meeting, and perhaps the Vallins evidence may be placed in my hands then."

FIREMEN PLAYED CARDS.

And the Department Building of Emporia Was Burned.

EMPORIA, Kan., May 6.—The Fire Department of Emporia is without shelter today, and the firemen are the laughing stock of the town. Late last night, while a number of the firemen were in the loft playing cards, it suddenly occurred that the fire department building had given the alarm. The men scurried out, but before the team could be taken from the building, the horses were down and the horses and the men, and all the men could do to save the engine and hose carts. The building was destroyed.

HOWLAND'S BODY FOUND.

New Bedford Mills Official Who Was Being Investigated.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., May 6.—The body of Wm. D. Holland, treasurer of the Howland Mills and the New Bedford Manufacturing Co. and the Rock Spinning Co. was found at the dock at the foot of New Street. The place where it was found is not far from where he was last seen alive. The corpse was found in a condition which was connected now in the hands of receivers, as the result of the discovery of an unusual financial entanglement recently by the stockholders.

STATE SUPREME COURT.

Etta James' Application for Habens Corpus Withdrawn.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 6.—In the Supreme Court on banc to day the case of Etta Hancock, respondent vs. J. S. Blackwell, appellant, was argued and submitted.

In Division No. 2 of the Supreme Court an application for habens corpus was granted to Etta James' attorney, and to day the application was withdrawn.

WORD TO THE TURNERS.

The visiting Turners are very welcome. St. Louis is delighted to see them, and will do all in her power to make their visit enjoyable. They are a manly and intelligent body, and the United States is the better for having this noble institution of the Fatherland transplanted to our soil.

While the Turners are here, they will of course read the St. Louis newspapers and compare them with the various journals they are familiar with in their several homes. And of the St. Louis newspapers printed in English, we would ask them, without egotism, whether they have any such paper as the Post-Dispatch at home.

This is as much as to ask whether they are favored at home with a great daily journal that is at all times on the side of the plain people, from whom the majority of Turners come. The Turners are not here, of course, to discuss politics. They are here to enjoy themselves and to show St. Louis the splendid results of athletic training upon an organized body of young men. But when they return home they will again take up the duties of ordinary life, which are so largely controlled by political actions and theories. And in their own interest we ask them, are their home journals true champions of the people, or are they mere organs of a class that is endeavoring to fasten upon these free United States the militarism, despotism and generally undemocratic conditions that so largely prevail in Germany and other European countries?

If the Turners desire to be as patriotic and wide-awake as they are athletic, let them read the Post-Dispatch. These be perilous times, and good citizens cannot afford to be uninformed of the dangers that menace the Republic.

INCREASING THE BEER TAX.

The Republicans of the Senate Finance Committee have agreed upon an increase of 40 cents a barrel in the beer tax.

The heavy importations in foreign goods now being made in anticipation of the higher tariffs sure to come under McKinleyism, have aroused the Republicans to the necessity of finding other sources of revenue. The threat of retroactive operation of the new law has been found to be ineffective for the reduction of imports in advance. It is now estimated that a year's impositions will be in the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations specifically amended in a way to exclude from arbitration questions which this Government might claim to come within its reserved rights and powers under the Monroe Doctrine. But Senator Mills claimed, and clearly proved, that the British net had been spread in nearly every one of the important clauses and sections of the Treaty, and that the document was really incapable of amendment in a way to make it serve its purpose of peaceful arbitration without danger of sacrificing American rights, interests and duties.

It is clear that Salsbury and Pauncefote, who drew this treaty, took little heed of Cleveland and Olney. They looked beyond them to a Senate which might be expected to safeguard the rights and interests of this Government. That is why the clauses taking away from the United States the reserved right of piracy on this continent were subtly woven into every important section. Senator Mills was clearly right in saying that the treaty was incapable of amendment.

There will be more gratification than disappointment at London. After the Senate evidenced its ability to detect and a disposition to emasculate every clause and section of surrender, Great Britain can have no desire to be committed to a mere policy of arbitration per se. What the English started out to get, and what they came perilously near getting, was the abrogation of the Monroe Doctrine. The Senate has saved the country from humiliation and dishonor.

THE DANGER IN ILLINOIS.

Another caucus of the opponents of the Humphrey bills in the House at Springfield numbered 33 members of that body opposed to these measures.

This was the second caucus held, and at the first the number present was the same. Some of the members who were at the Capital when the first caucus met were not in the second caucus, but others not present in the first caucus were in the second. In the first caucus 35 members, not present, were vouchered for as being opposed to the passage of the bills. In the second caucus 37 members not present were vouchered for in like manner.

A vote is not sure until it is cast and counted. There is nothing more valuable than an unvoted vote. In both of the caucuses held, between 30 and 40 members, said to be opposed to the bills were not in the city. The grave danger of the situation is that an equal number may be absent when the vote in the House, to determine whether or no these bills of infamy shall become laws, is reached.

The two caucuses have revealed clearly that the bills will be supported by over 60 members of the House, either in their present shape, or in some “amended” form which will leave them as objectionable as they have always been and as much opposed to public right and interest. Every one of the members upon whom the corporations can count will be in his place, and if there are to be from 30 to 40 members “vouched for” but absent, the 60 votes or more in favor of the bills will constitute a majority of the quorum voting.

The situation is full of danger. All the men present at the two caucuses are not equal in number to the three score and more upon whom the corporations can depend. That is the situation and the danger.

There may be reasons, growing out of the attendance of members upon judicial conventions now in progress throughout the State, for the absence of honest men from the caucus. But the danger is none the less real, and should not be underestimated. Let it be known that the men who fail to vote against these bills will be regarded as public enemies precisely as are those who vote for them, and absences may be aroused to proper sense of responsibility.

A HARMONIOUS PARTY.

Commenting upon the succession of Democratic victories in the spring elections, the Republic, which has a strong Bolotropic leaning, says: “Democratic discord is the only stumbling block in the way of a Democratic revival.”

This is a Bolotropic, not a Democratic view. If it has any meaning, it means that the Bolotracists must be conciliated or won over before the Democratic revival will come.

Neither of these propositions is correct. The Cleveland-Palmer, Bolotracists, who set up the Indianapolis side show, properly belong in the Republican party, and if they are to be conciliated at all it must be by the Republicans. In spite of their feeble attempts to create discord, the Democratic party has never been so harmonious since the split in 1860 as it is now. Having rid itself of the Clevelandians, the Whiteman, the Brices, the Rothschild-Belmonts, the Pierpont Morgans and the rest of the Wall Street janizaries who for twenty years have been camping in its citadel for the purpose of neutralizing its work as a party of the people, it presents a solid and unbroken front to the common enemy.

Doubtless Mr. McKinley was more pleased yesterday to meet the Kickapoo and Pottawatomie Indians than to confront the hungry Filley Republicans from Missouri.

The Senate paid its respects to Mr. Olney yesterday in the defeat of the arbitration treaty, which was to inscribe Olney's name on the ample page of history.

If Mr. Hanna can co-operate with goldbug Democrats and Middle-of-the-Road Populists he will be encouraged to hope for everything he desires politically.

It would be sufficiently amusing if Mr. McKinley were to remove Postmaster Carlisle, a “gold Democrat,” because of the offense of a Republican clerk.

The Illinois House should promptly kick out the Senate bonding bill bill. The whole State is disgusted with the Senate's infamous work.

The business houses that are doing most business in St. Louis are advertising in the Post-Dispatch. They reach more readers than any others.

New York may object to Mayor Strong giving away brickbats from the old tomb of Gen. Grant. There is no money in giving anything away.

The Democratic majority in Chillicothe is unprecedented. The change in public sentiment since November is marked all over the country.

The charge that the King of Greece has cleared a large sum by bond speculation will not suffice Pierpont Morgan or Grover Cleveland.

What will the McKinley Journals that in 1890 sang so sweetly of reciprocity and free sugar sing about now? Complete protection?

One hundred persons have just been burned to death in a Paris charity bazaar. Nevertheless Providence is not opposed to charity.

Corn is a dollar a bushel in Mexico. Certainly this is a market which our corn-burning farmers may well yearn for.

The Solid City is to-day turned over to the Turners with a Gut Heil and a Williams everywhere.

The Republican city of Hannibal has followed the spring fashion and gone Democratic.

Paris mourns, and so will every city, sooner or later, that disregards the laws of nature.

The Greek fleet is not wholly useless. It has captured a “suspicious schooner.”

Reflections of a Bachelor.

From the New York Press.

The old married woman has an idea that all men propose exactly alike.

No girl ever believes that her father and mother have the right ideas about marriage.

A woman can hate a man more different ways in five minutes than a man can love a woman in a year.

A girl can never understand how a man can know much and yet have such an ignorant look in his eyes.

Many a man begins his downward career of dishonesty and deception by pretending he likes to kiss a baby.

No man can love his wife completely while he is eating a cold dinner off of a dry goods box out in the kitchen.

Ingratitude.

From the New York Press.

“What?” demanded the dime museum proprietor.

The Zulu Chieftain hastened to explain.

“It's the glass-eater, sir,” he volunteered.

“He has' th' dyspepsy. He sex' th' hash ain't up to the mark.”

The dime museum proprietor sniffed angrily. “And that,” he said, “is all I get for buying him genuine stained glass windows.”

BELLE MARGUERITE.

From the Granite Monthly.

Belle Marguerite—the thousand nameless graces.

Of all the queens of beauty

Since the days of Helen,

The wondrous of all the wondrous faces,

And voices low and flutey—

Molded in one!

Just see her waiting there, the peerless creature!

The perfect, matchless woman!

And watch her face—

Instinct with youth and love in every feature.

And passionately human

In every grace.

No queen of hearts was ever half so gracious;

The State of New York loses $1,400,000 because Gov. Black failed to sign the inheritance tax law in time to reach the enormous estate of the late Theodore Havemeyer. The act should have been signed at once, but laws for the general good are apt to drag somewhere.

Mating cannot be made in this country, but in order to please Eastern manufacturers in the tariff robbery scheme, Mr. Dingley put a prohibitive duty on this cheap substitute for carpets, the prices of which will be greatly increased. The consumer who is poor is little considered by the rich tinkers.

“We've got 'em; we've got 'em,” exclaimed Herr Bartholdi on leaving the White House with the Filley delegations. If Mr. Filley has any of Dr. McLean's Verminife left on his shelf he should administer it to Herr Bartholdi without delay.

The great advantage of the exclusive use of the afternoon Associated Press dispatches is understood by St. Louis newspaper readers. No paper in this city except the Post-Dispatch can give its readers these reports.

The high tariff bill as it comes from the Senate is still a huge scheme of robbery, but it is not the Dingley bill. Dingley, however, would not like to see his name dropped from this monstrous legislative inquiry.

There is no reciprocity in the new tariff bill, and therefore the bill makes no opening for a bushel of grain or a barrel of pork in foreign markets, upon which our grain growers and pork raisers, so much depend.

It was Senator Elkins' remark that “wages must come down” that made the Democratic victories in Indiana. The declining tendency has been noticed by others ever since the great election of last year.

Doubtless Mr. McKinley was more pleased yesterday to meet the Kickapoo and Pottawatomie Indians than to confront the hungry Filley Republicans from Missouri.

The Senate paid its respects to Mr. Olney yesterday in the defeat of the arbitration treaty, which was to inscribe Olney's name on the ample page of history.

FOR HOME FANS TO THINK ABOUT.

BROWNS' STRENGTH AND WEAKNESS SHOWN IN ONE GAME.

VERY SHY ON BASE RUNNING.

Roger Connor the Hero of the Wednesday Slugging Exhibition and Victory Over Anson's Colts.

That game in Chicago, Wednesday had lots in it to give St. Louis roosters and fans something to think about. It showed at one and the same time the weakness and the strength of the Browns. The entire performance of the St. Louis team was nothing unusual and hence the game may be taken fairly for an average of the club's ability. The Browns, however, have been game in which they excelled and excelled the opposing nine at the bat. They have won three games since April 27, when the series began, and their record will be stick work. Their victory Wednesday was because they had no trouble with Griffith's delivery and were helped by him.

The strength of the St. Louis nine was shown by the number of hits made off the Chicago pitcher. The weakness is shown in the number of base runs compared with the total base hit column. Eighteen safe hits and nine runs made in strings of one and three. There is not one run that can be traced back to running and team work, or rather head work when at the bat.

Take for instance the first inning of the Wednesday game. One base on balls and three safe hits, with but one out, netted just a single score. This was the case in the third game with Chicago last week. Three and four hits in one inning and not even a run scored. The Browns did in that game. Let Boston or Philadelphia or Cincinnati, for instance, make three hits in one inning and come up with a base on balls and one man out and see what the score card would show when the third man had been retired. The Browns did not win the result nine times in ten, because those teams know base running and the ins and emergencies of a game which suddenly comes up.

Eleven men went to bat for Chicago in the third inning and five men scored. A sixth tally was made on an error. Seven hits and five runs; three hits and a base on balls, and one run scored. One hit and no run. Comment is unnecessary.

Still, no effort should be made to rob the Browns of their well-earned victory. They made a Garrison finish and took the game in the ninth inning, when it seemed sure to go to the wire. The City of Louis is full of roosters who have had to learn that the club won under any circumstances and they are rejoiced to know that the Browns have come to call on all the players. But they would be happier to know that the team depends upon some one's getting a hit to insure a winning game. Let Capt. Dowd give them a lecture upon the value of the losing and sacrifice hitting if the leaders do not do it. He will finish four or five pegs away from the bottom.

Old Roger Connor terrific connections with the press were of great service of the Wednesday game, and to him may be given the honors of the victory without any question. He scored himself in the first inning, scored himself in the third by hitting safely and coming in on McFarland's error, and out went the ninth inning and tied the score a moment later on Hartman's long whack to centre.

Three more found his turn-outs and no errors was Roger's record. Not bad for an old man, is it?

Hartman did some good hitting also and played well, but he could not make up for his brilliant work at shortfield and got in a double, besides. Bliebauer was the one who hit his best ball, and both McFarland and Douglas, who landed safely, twice failed to get across the plate.

Douglas pitched a good ball, except in the ninth inning. After that, he had no errors and the Browns were powerless to do anything.

It is reported that President Byrne of the Brooklyn is after Donohue. He believes the Hibernian, captain with the oriflamme that he will buy him. If so, he will offer Von der Ahe either Kennedy or Daub and a cash bonus for Donohue's release. Nothing has been heard at Sportsman's Park of the offer. See you Saturday.

Muckenfuss said Thursday morning that Donohue would not be sold in any offer we made.

Standing of the Clubs.

Just "one consecutive" day did the Browns adorn last place, the champion ship, and the position, now being claimed by Washington. St. Louis and Boston are tied in the eleventh position by reason of the Browns' defeat of the Colts Wednesday and Philadelphia's loss to the Beaneaters. The tie will be broken Thursday as Boston is in Washington play, while the Browns are at home. Cincinnati and Cleveland are to meet, with the Indians as probable winners. St. Louis, who have to open at Louisville, but Capt. Dowd has a chance to take the rest and play the first game. The Colonels were not feeling any too chipper after their journey to the West, and a similar game was played Wednesday. It made the proposition that the opening game be deferred to Friday, as the Baltimore lost Wednesday, and will have to make up place. Should they lose Thursday and Cincinnati should win, the Reds will move to the top of the column. The standing of the clubs is as follows:

COMFORT AND KNOWLEDGE.
(Sent free by mail.)

Set aside for twenty-four hours a bottle of Kilmers' glass filled with urine. A sediment or scum, indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmers' Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of the Swamp Root is soon realized. It stands as the wonder of its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail. Mention the Daily Post-Dispatch, and send your address to Dr. Kilmers & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The proprietors of this paper guarantee the genuineness of this offer.

FILLEY'S COMEDY IN THREE ACTS.
THAT PICTURESQUE DELEGATION TO THE WHITE HOUSE.

ALL DISTINGUISHED DIPLOMATS

Qualified to Represent the Only Republican Party Now in Missouri.

When the Honorable Christopher Schawacker of St. Louis, representing the Republican party of Missouri, arose in the midst of his compatriots and advised the President of the United States what course to pursue with reference to the Federal patronage, there must have been a scene of solemn impressiveness such as the White House has not known in many years.

The Colonel, as everybody knows, is by profession an undertaker, and when he went to Washington as the leader of the delegation, said to demonstrate that only such appointments will be regarded only such persons who have the name of Filley blown in the bottle, all uncertainty respecting the offices in this State was dissolved.

Christopher is not afraid of king or peasant. His long association with nobility in the person of Mr. Filley amply qualified him for the otherwise embarrassing task he has just performed in the White House.

At 11 o'clock yesterday night Chas. Nelson, a Swede, ran bareheaded and bleeding from a South Ninth street dive. He had jumped through a window, shattering the glass and cutting his head and face in several places. He told Col. Schawacker he was reassured of his safety because his noble bosom should have with enthusiasm while he told the wondering White House occupants how like Henry VIII. he himself had forgotten this humorous episode, however.

Maj. F. G. Utter, one of Col. Schawacker's aids, likewise explained the reason.

Henry Peabody, too, took full advantage of the President. Henry is away up in national politics and diplomacy, having assumed command of the Third District street inspection department, where he learned that a new broom sweeps clean.

While he was away, he gave his men to work with old bones. While Reinstein is not a very conspicuous orator his new job as City Marshal was well calculated to make him popular.

COW THIEF CAUGHT.

Henry Meier Admits That He Stole One Fine Jersey.

For some time the West End has been suffering from the depredations of some persons who was stealing the cows which were staked out on vacant lots to baffle during the day.

The thief who disappeared were in almost every case bloodied brutes belonging to West End families in a position to indulge in the sport.

The police of the Seventh District have a man they think is the one who has been the culprit. This man is identified as his alias as Henry Meier and his residence as 1607 Euclid avenue.

He was arrested on the information of two boys who were caught with the cow of Theo. Nueneman, 400 Easton avenue. They had note saying that the summer. They said a man had told them where the cow was staked out and that it belonged to him. He was brought to Grand and Chouteau avenues, where he would pay their trouble.

The police have half a dozen negroes engaged by them to gather up cows and hold the man to whom they delivered the cow.

The police claim Meier admitted stealing a nice Jersey from John L. Davis, 400 Franklin, and bringing it to a South Louis butcher for $15. The cow was worth at least $60. The other cows bring to Grand and Chouteau avenues, where he would pay their trouble.

The police have half a dozen negroes engaged by them to gather up cows and hold the man to whom they delivered the cow.

HIGGINSVILLE HOME SENSATION.

UGLY CHARGES MADE AGAINST
EX-SUPT. CASSELL.

MADE BY LIBRARIAN SPENCER.

The Board Took No Action and Many Friends Defended Cassell and His Administration.

Special to the Post-Dispatch
EX-CONFEDERATE HOME, HIGGINSVILLE, Mo., May 6.—In accordance with a vote taken by the Thirty-ninth General Assembly, the Missouri Ex-Confederate Home is now an eleemosynary institution under State control.

For two days the recently appointed State Board of Managers was in session here electing new officers for the home and completing the details preliminary to formal transfer of the property to the State.

The proceedings at the board meeting were largely with resolution. J. S. Spencer, Librarian of the home, reported before the board and preferred charges against Capt. T. W. Cassell of Jackson County, who has been Superintendent of the institution the last four years. Librarian Spencer boldly stated that Capt. Cassell had been guilty of malfeasance and had failed to administer the home. He alleged specifically that it has been the custom of the Superintendent to use insulting language in addressing the inmates, and further that he was harassing them. The most serious allegation registered by the Librarian was that an old man, by the name of Lupton, had been abruptly driven from the home. The only provocation given by Lupton, so Spencer alleged, was that he had begged to be allowed to go home from a boiler when he was too sick to work.

"I witnessed this inhuman act," Librarian said.

Superintendent Cassell was present while Spencer gave testimony. He remained calm throughout the ordeal.

Lupton, who is above the average in point of intelligence and his ready command of language enables him to give vent to many caustic utterances in a minute or two. He was abruptly driven from the home.

WHERE OUR HEROES ARE BURIED.

SCATTERED GRAVES OF FAMOUS LEADERS IN THE WAR.

FEW IN UNKNOWN GRAVES.
They Were Mostly Recovered From the Fields of Battle and Laid to Rest With Honors.

The bones of our martial leaders and heroes are widely scattered, says the New York Sun. Grant sleeps by the Hudson, Sherman on the banks of the Mississippi, and Sheridan at Arlington, across the Potomac from Washington. With the exception of West Point and Arlington, there is no burial place especially set apart for soldiers and sailors which contains the bodies of any number of noted leaders. A number are buried in the civic cemeteries, Laurel Hill, Philadelphia and Spring Grove, Cincinnati's war hero, Gen. Robert Anderson, lies at West Point. In the cemetery of the graves of Gen. Kilpatrick, the dashing cavalryman; J. M. Chapman, Harttaut, William Hays, MacKenzie, also a distinguished cavalryman, Charles A. Slocum, leader of the Fifteenth and the Twenty-third, who died in Switzerland in 1896, and was brought to West Point for burial.

The author of the phrase, "If any man attempts to haul down the American flag, shoot him on the spot," Gen. John A. Dix, found on the roadside, His grave in the Cemetery on Washington Heights, is marked by a simple headstone.

Gen. George P. Alexander is buried in Rock Creek Cemetery on the Hudson. Gen. Thomas' grave is in Oak Wood Cemetery, Troy.

The grave of Gen. Sherman, in Calvary Cemetery, St. Louis, is marked by a monument. McClellan lies in River View Cemetery, the grave of Gen. Lee, the adopted son of his adopted State, Rhode Island, at Swamp Point Cemetery.

Joseph Hooker, "Fighting Joe," the commander of the third of the Potomac, sleeps in Cincinnati; Meade, the fourth and last commander of the army, is buried in Philadelphia.

Col. Ellsworth, the zouave, known as the famous martyr of Alexander, who fell in the second month of the war, is buried in the churchyard of the First Presbyterian Church, Nathaniel Lyon, also a hero of the first month of the war, is buried at Eastford, Conn.

Maj. Theodore Winthrop is buried at New Haven, Conn. "Hold the Fort," Corps, who survived his war wounds and died a couple of years ago, is buried in Elmwood Cemetery, Boston. Cushing, the hero of Albermarle Sound, and who also survived his war injuries, is buried in the Naval Cemetery at Annapolis.

Hancock is buried at Norristown, Pa., in a vault constructed under his own superintendence. Goodrich, a gallant soldier, Oakwood Cemetery, Syracuse, N. Y. Gen. Hirman Burnham, the hero of the capture of Port Royal, S. C., is buried in Elmwood Cemetery, Boston. Col. Eliel Jr., who organized the first steam ram fleet and died of a wound received in the desperate naval battle of Mobile Bay, is buried in the Naval Cemetery, Philadelphia. Farragut is buried at Woodlawn Cemetery, New York. Gen. Stanton, who was brigadier of the Second Division, turned up at Gettysburg, during repelling Pickett's charge, is buried at Burlington, Vt.

Gen. James Hooker rests in Spring Grove Cemetery, Cincinnati. In the same cemetery lie the remains of Gen. William H. Lytle, the gallant Ohio leader, author of the well-known poem, "I Am Dying, Egypt, Dying."

With scarcely an exception, the bodies of the fallen heroes were either recovered from the field or afterward taken from the battlefield cemeteries for reinterment at the North. One such exception was in the case of Maj. Robert G. Shaw, whose regiment of black soldiers, "their line of eyeballs gleaming white," had been cut to pieces at Fort Wagner. Shaw was killed on the parapet, and the Southerners, who held the field and sent him across it, cut off his body and buried it in the fort on the beach. In the course of time the action of the waves destroyed the surface of the beach to a remarkable degree, so that the remains of Wagner's heroes beyond recovery. Another war hero, whose last resting place can not be known, is Maj. General George Thomas Francis Meagher. Some time after the war Meagher was drowned from a vessel on the Hudson River, and his body was never recovered. The body of the gallant Custer was removed from the scene of the massacre on Little Big Horn, and buried at West Point. The remains of Capt. Miles W. Keogh, who died in the battle of the Little Big Horn, were also identified and buried at West Point. His body was brought to the Contraband Hospital, and threatened the Davis boomers with his direst displeasure if they persisted in their effort to identify him.

But the Kereites "pole knocked the perimmon," and now Maj. Warner is considered entirely out in the political cold. He has been denied a seat in Congress with the President, who had given him "assurances of distinguished consideration." This fatal Maj. Warner meant nothing to Webster Davis, and he threatened the Davis boomers with his direst displeasure if they persisted in their effort to identify him.

The Kereites pledged themselves early in the action to Webster Davis, while Warner did not do so. Webster Davis, however, with the President, who had given him "assurances of distinguished consideration." This fatal Maj. Warner meant nothing to Webster Davis, and he threatened the Davis boomers with his direst displeasure if they persisted in their effort to identify him.

The local Republicans, singularly enough, are very nearly united in expression of pleasure over the turn-down given Maj. Wm. Warner by the appointment of Webster Davis to be Assistant Secretary of the Interior. The Filleyites were against Warner, because they believed him partial to the Davis boomers, and threatened the Davis boomers with his direst displeasure if they persisted in their effort to identify him.

SEVEN BROTHERS WITH ONE THOUGHT.

IT IS TO MAKE THEIRS THE BEST OF CIRCUSES.

LIFE WORK OF THE RINGLINGS.

Each Has a Portion of the Show Under His Direction and All Full Together.

The Ringling Bros. may advertise that such and such an act is the greatest in the world, or that such and such an attraction is without parallel, but there is something about their circus more marvelous than anything on the bills—that is, the seven brothers, working shoulder to shoulder since they took up the profession all together in the same business and all living together without a word of dissension or disagreement.

Have you met one of the Ringlings? If you have not you have missed something. Modest, unassuming and polite, they are gentlemen of the old school; the same toward strangers as toward friends and to employees as to patrons.

The brothers all have rich, dark complexioned, and are of the Spanish type. They are fine specimens of manhood and their faces attract more than passing notice. They are all well educated, and most of them have kind fathers; the older brothers are quiet and steady. They say at the circus that no one ever hears a Ringling swear, and that they do not drink beer. They do not allow coarse language to be used by men in their employ.

Each brother has taken upon himself that portion of the circus management to which experience has shown him best adapted. Albert is the head of the Ringlings. He is 48 years old and married. He is a man of genius that plans the quick maneuvers on the hippodrome course and in the rings. He is the director of the billiard department, of performances. He arranges the parades and the pageants. He believes in having every thing take place exactly on time, with a run and a snap to it. What is thrown into the circus an element that is one reason for its great success.

Albert has the second son. He is not with the circus, but travels ahead in the bill-posting car, and his sole business is to see that every town where the circus is to exhibit gets a proper bill-board. Otto, aged 37, a genial bachelor, handles the cash for the community. He is in charge of the horses. When the circus is in town is the big yellow wagon where the strong box is kept and into which these nights pass a steady stream of cash. Otto, too, does not take much interest in taking in money. He has a salary list of large as that of a big brewery, and the annual bill that comes in totals the thousand and one bill that comes in totals a very busy man.

Next in age is Alfred, whose business it is to measure and edit news papers. He conducts the "circus literary bureau," writes press notices and such advertising copy as the public wants to have. This perfect understanding they have increased the prosperity from the little pin money to the $200,000 investment. Aside from the investment, each brother is now quite well off.

They have made a host of friends in St. Louis, and the universal sentiment seems to be: Good luck to the Ringling Brothers, may they return to the Mound City each year.

business is to bill the route. He is kept busy with maps and railway guides, and with a general knowledge of freight agents. Then he has to watch the financial affairs. If he sees a dead town ahead, he shies away. He is supposed to know the cities where the men are loaded, and there he is drawn like a magnet.

The last of the seven is Henry, aged 27, who has exclusive charge of the concessions. He watches out for the side show, the refreshment stands and the sale of photographs and songs. He is supposed to know the attitude in that lemonade is provided at the stands—not circus lemonade. There is a difference.

Wednesday evening Dr. Sutter advised Capt. Joyce that Baker was dying. Patrolmen, citizens, doctors were put in with detective with orders to bring in Spray. A few minutes past 8 o'clock Friday morning a man, somewhat flurried entered the office of the City Hospital. Senator Woodlock instantly recognized Spray, and arrested him. He had nothing to say, but seemed to be in a hurry to be taken to the hospital.

Later it developed from the prisoner that the father and brother of Anna had been shot at 1449 O'Fallon street, two hours after Spray had made improper advances to Mrs. Baker, who lives at 1449 Falton street, and was advancing to assault her when the husband came in. The two men clinched and fought for some minutes in the room. Finally they got into the yard, and it is claimed Spray struck his antagonist with a brick bat. He then fled and Baker was taken to the City Hospital. Search was immediately instituted for Spray, but he failed even to continue his flight.
